British Ship Sinks Racing to Aid Another

Hope Is All But Abandoned for 28 Men Aboard

LONDON (EP)—Hope was all but abandoned Monday for the 28 crewmen aboard the British freighter Narva which sank in a North Sea storm as it raced to the rescue of another ship in distress.

An international mercy fleet searched the mountainous seas but all they found were a spreading oil slick, an overturned lifeboat and two lifebuoys with their flares still burning.

Ironically all 14 men aboard the other ship, the 865-ton British coaster Bosworth, were saved and the vessel taken in tow while the Narva was speeding to its rescue.

The dramatic battle against the sea took place in the North Sea midway between Aberdeen, Scotland, and the southern tip of Norway.

The Bosworth had radioed an SOS that it was listing dangerously. The 1,991-ton Scottish-owned Narva heeded the call of distress, shouldering through the gigantic waves in its 60-mile rescue mission. Later the Bosworth reported the list somewhat corrected although it was abandoned.

The Bosworth, with a hole in its stern, was being towed to Aberdeen by the British trawler Faraday. The Bosworth's crew transferred to the trawler Wolverhampton Wanderer.

The 6,670-ton Norwegian liner Leda arrived on the scene in time for passengers and crew to watch the Narva's death throes from 500 yards away.

They saw the freighter's crewmen hanging desperately to whatever they could grab on the Narva's slippery, sloping decks. The liner dumped 17 tons of oil into the sea to calm it but it was no use.

Pilgrims Assemble For Christmas Eve Trip to Bethlehem

JERUSALEM, Israel (EP)—More than 1,000 Christian pilgrims assembled here today for a Christmas Eve pilgrimage to Bethlehem, Christ's birthplace in what is now Jordan.

The occasion will mark a brief period of good cheer for a section of the earth that is shrouded most of the year in tension.

The pilgrims will make their crossing from Israel to Jordan thru Jerusalem's Mandelbaum Gate. From the Jordan side they will take the Bethlehem road to the Church of the Nativity.

Peabody to Close Mine at Pana

PANA, Ill. (EP)—Peabody Coal Co. mine No. 17, one of the largest mines in Illinois, will be closed here at the end of this week, it was reported today.

Firms which purchase coal from the mine, which employs more than 500 persons, have been notified that the mine would work on four more days, Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday.

No official reason has been disclosed here for the mine closing. The giant mine was sunk in 1947 at a cost of nearly 10 million dollars, and hoisted its first coal in 1948.

More than 700 men were employed at the mine at one time but the number was reduced as additional mining operations were taken over by machines.

Miners from a number of central Illinois communities are employed at the giant mine. When other mines at Taylorville and Springfield were closed a few years back, many of the men were transferred to the Pana installation.

The Peabody company also operates a number of other mines.

Eisenhower Presides At Security Council Meeting

President to Make Radio-TV Report Tonight

Council Expected to Take Up Top-Secret Study on Preparedness

WASHINGTON (EP)—President Eisenhower, preparing a radio-TV report to the nation on Allied defense plans, presided today over a meeting of the National Security Council.

It was the council's first meeting since the President returned from the NATO "summit" conference in Paris. In addition to discussing the Paris decisions, the meeting was expected to consider parts of the top-secret Gaither report, which is reported to have drawn a frightening picture of the lag in U. S. military preparedness.

Before opening the council meeting, the President met briefly with Secretary of State John Foster Dulles.

White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said the President and Dulles discussed plans for their broadcast tonight.

Hagerty said he believed the report would be "informal," with both men speaking only from notes.

In his radio-TV talk, the President is expected to stand firmly behind proposals by the NATO conference for disarmament talks with Russia either in a special 25-nation United Nations committee or a foreign ministers conference.

By implication, at least, he is expected to reject Russia's weekend proposals of summit, U.N. and world conference on disarmament and the cold war.

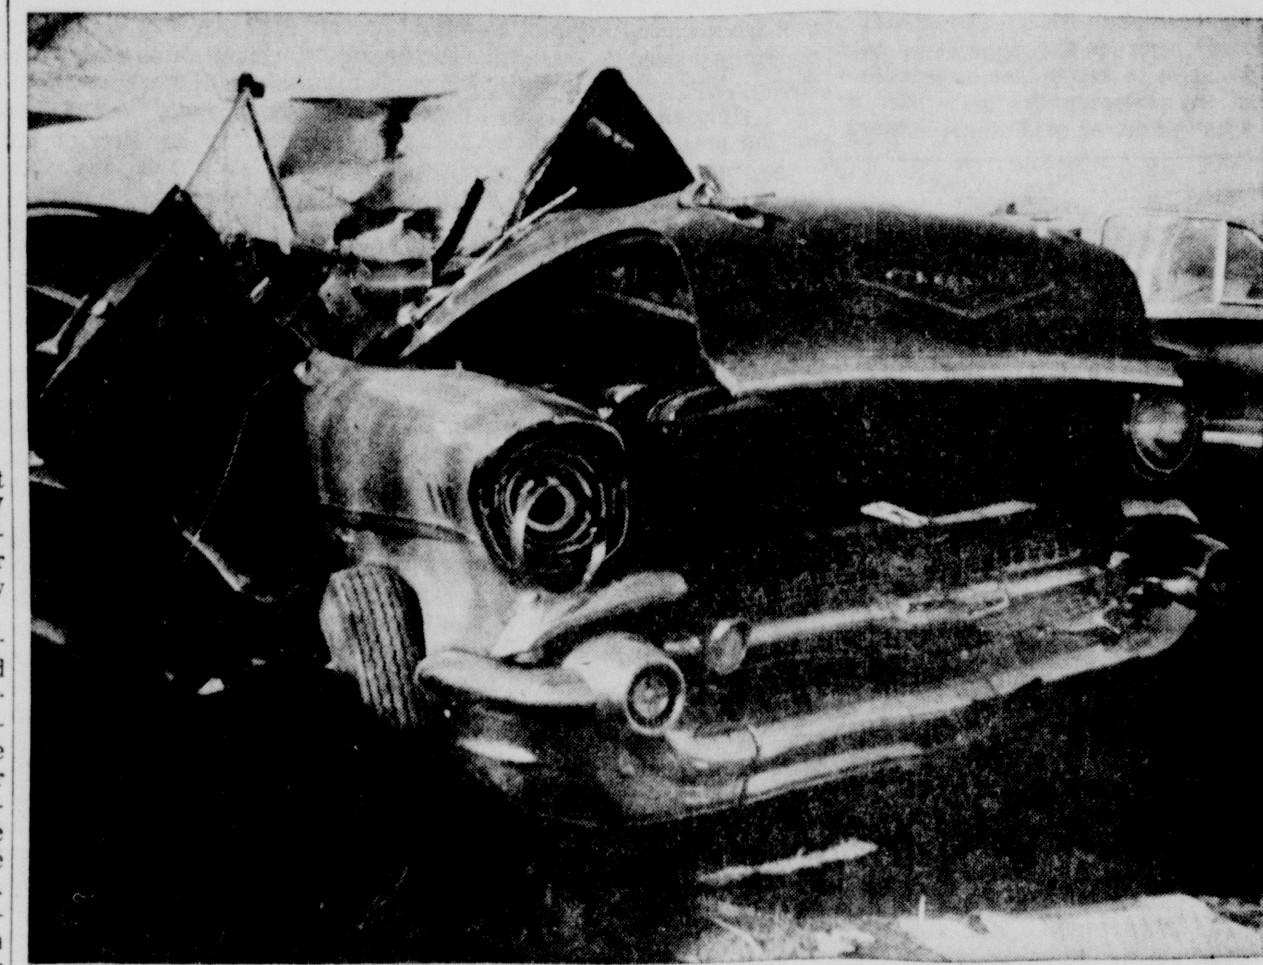

Russia apparently has rejected either possibility. But high U. S. officials believe the Soviet Union has left the door open to possible eventual participation in the 25-nation U. N. disarmament talks.

The administration has come under intense pressure over the week end to make public the basic findings of the Gaither Report following published "leaks" of portions of its contents.

The report, according to various versions, paints a frightening picture of this country's lag in military preparedness compared to Russia's and calls for a massive defense buildup, a 20-billion-dollar shelter program and other emergency measures.

Pope Appeals for Slowdown in Arms Race in Christmas Message

Pontiff Defends Right of Free World To Unite in Defense

VATICAN CITY (EP)—Pope Pius XII Sunday cautioned against letting Communist technological advances and propaganda panic the free world blindly into an all-out arms race.

The 81-year-old Pontiff, in a Christmas message broadcast throughout the world in 27 languages, defended the right of free nations to band together for common defense — an obvious reference to NATO.

But he said the "true friends of peace" should not be duped by short-term Soviet advantages.

"Let those who observe today's competition know how to reduce the facts to their true proportions," he said.

"Let them not permit themselves to be misled by supracacies, of very short duration, nor to be influenced by fears skillfully evoked to win the interest and support of others."

He said the world needs a "breathing space" from the costs of the arms race. He said he was confident the free nations of the world would band together in the event of danger.

"We are certain that at the first sign of danger that link (of solidarity among free nations) would not fail to be tightened even more, as some recent events have clearly shown," the Pope said.

"But now it is not so much a matter of taking emergency measures as of preventing disturbances of order and of giving a deserved breathing spell to a world which has already suffered too much."

He said the basic trouble is that the world had made great material gains without assessing them properly spiritually.

"The preponderant material progress has shattered the harmonious and happy completeness of man, has somehow mutilated his appreciation of spiritual values, giving him completeness only in one direction," the Pope said.

He scored some scientists who "do their work as if the spirit were non-existent, and has nothing to contribute."

16 Injured When Speeding Santa Fe Streamliner Hits Stalled Auto

Eight of Ten Cars Leave Track, But None Overturn

OAKLEY, Calif. (EP)—Sixteen persons were injured Sunday night when the speeding Santa Fe Streamliner train Golden Gate limited smashed into a stalled car at a crossing here and was derailed.

A United Press check of hospitals in the area disclosed 15 passengers and a crewman were treated for injuries. None of the victims was reported in serious condition.

10th Tornado Victim Dies At Murphysboro

MURPHYSBORO, Ill. (EP)—Wendy Irene Johnson, 2, died Sunday, the 10th victim of last week's tornado which destroyed a large section of this southern Illinois city.

The Johnson girl died in Doctors' Hospital at nearby Carbon-dale, where many of the 178 persons injured in the twister last Wednesday were taken.

Mayor Joseph Williams, meanwhile, mapped a giant cleanup campaign for today or Tuesday as the rubble in the devastated southern part of the city threatened to create a "health menace."

Williams said the debris of between 100 and 150 homes would be pushed into a huge pile by bulldozers and burned. He said he had asked for state and federal aid, but so far his requests have gone unanswered.

"It has come to the point where we have to start a cleanup even if we have to borrow money to do it," Williams said.

Sheriff Howard Cheatham said about 100 homeless persons still were being cared for in refugee centers. His wife said toys, clothing and furniture have been donated to the homeless to help them get back on their feet.

The WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND by DREW PEARSON

(Editor's Note: While Drew
Pearson is taking the Harlem Globetrotters on a good will tour of North Africa, the Merry-Go-Round column is being written by his associate,
Jack Anderson.

JACK ANDERSON SAYS:
The Vanguard Rocket No. 2
Secretly Set For Launching:
Air Force To Stage Anti-Missile Battle; Canada Protests Bomarc Bases Are Invitation To Attack.

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. — In prayerful secrecy, another Vanguard rocket has been hoisted on its launching pad at Cape Cana-verial for a second attempt to pitch a softball-sized satellite into space. The firing is expected any day, although it will be done without pressure or publicity.

The first spectacular failure two weeks ago caused a publicity backfire that echoed around the world. The world's attention had been focused on the test by almost hourly bulletins. But the long, slender rocket rose a bare three feet off the ground, dropped back on its haunches, and burst into brilliant flame. The nose cone tipped askew like a New Year's Eve hat, tossing the tiny test satellite to the ground where it lay bleating the signals that were supposed to have come from outer space.

The only launching pad tailored for the Vanguard was so badly damaged that the experts felt it would take several weeks to repair. Working around the clock, however, construction crews restored the damaged pad with astounding speed. It was ready last Monday for the second Vanguard, which has now been hoisted into place—ready again for the painstaking countdowns.

These preparations have been carried out in utmost secrecy by order of Assistant Defense Secretary Murray Snyder, who was raked over the congressional coals for the earlier publicity fiasco.
To prevent its happening again,
he got on the phone to call Maj.
Gen. Donald Yates, commander of the missile testing center.

"Close it down," Snyder barked, almost hysterically. He meant close the curtain on the press.
After a calmed down, however,
he agreed that the test results could still be announced, but he wanted absolutely no advance publicity.

MISSILE BATTLE
The Air Force will pit two of its best missiles against each other next spring in what might be billed as the first real test of an anti-missile missile. The airman will attempt to shoot down a Snark intercontinental missile with a Bomarc anti-aircraft missile.

The Snark will be launched from California on an evasive course across country. At Eglin Air Force Base, Fla., a Bomarc crew will attempt to detect the Snark and shoot it down. The Bomarc is a supersonic missile designed to knock down enemy craft as high as 60,000 feet and as far away as 300 miles. It is also equipped to carry an atomic warhead, though only a small explosive will be used in the Snark test.

The Bomarc is the nearest weapon we have to an anti-missile missile. Its designers claim it can seek out an advancing missile like the Snark and zero in on it. Of course, it can't shoot down the big ballistic missiles now being tested, but it may teach valuable lessons that will lead to an anti-ballistic missile.

Note: The Air Force has already staged a small-scale "Battle of the Missiles" between the short-range Matador and Falcon.
The Falcon, an anti-aircraft missile, easily shot down the Matador. This is dramatic evidence that our Matador missiles, already based in Europe and Formosa, would be easy prey for Soviet anti-aircraft rockets.

MISSILE GO-ROUND

The Canadian government has lodged a stiff, private protest against the Bomarc missile bases
we are building in the Northeast.
The Bomarc is a supersonic, atomic-tipped missile designed to destroy enemy bombers 200 to 300 miles away. Since the shortest air route from Russia lies over the North Pole, the bombers would be over Canadian territory when they came within range of the Bomarc bases. This disturbs the Canadians because it means enemy jet planes would probably fall on Canadian soil. They object to jeopardizing Canadian territory in order to safeguard American targets. Result: They are demanding a bigger say-so in joint Canadian-American defense
... The Navy is rushing construction at Cape Canaveral of a special launching pad designed to simulate the motions of a vessel at sea. This will be used to test the Navy's 1,200-mile Polaris missile, which will be launched from atomic submarines under the should be completed in a few weeks. Meanwhile, the Navy has already started testing Polaris components at the missile testing
... The Air Force will build a junior edition of its 1,500-mile Thor missile. Thor junior will be fired by powder like a giant artillery shell rather than liquid fuel, and will have an estimated range of 800 miles. Not to be outdone, the Army is working with Chrysler Corporation on a solid-propellant Jupiter, also with an 800-mile range. ... The rival Jupiter and Thor missiles are still having testing troubles. In its latest test, the Jupiter—designed to go 1,500 miles—bugged out before it had reached 10 miles. Apparent cause: A valve or metering failure in the fuel ox-idizer system. ... The Defense Department also admitted that the latest Thor had fallen "short" of its intended mark, but didn't mention how far short. Actually, the big missile went only about 50 of its 1,500-mile course. ... however, the failure wasn't in the missile power plant, but in the small motor that runs the guidance system. It was the guidance mechanism's first test.

Husbands Share Crescent Unit Home Bureau Christmas Party

Members of the Crescent Home Bureau unit and their husbands met Saturday evening in the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. Wayne Brown for a Christmas party. There was a large Christmas tree and the gifts were placed beneath it, making a colorful and attractive display. These gifts were for exchange later in the evening. The mantle decoration had gold and white angels overlooking a small white church from which came Christmas music.

The food committee served dinner to the members and guests, seated at tables covered with white cloths centered with tiny Christmas trees and with place cards of candy canes. Mrs. Brown, Mrs. Gurn Skelley, Mrs. Jim Gibbons, Mrs. Tom Carpenter and Mrs. Edgar Price were on the committee.

Following the dinner there was a social hour and there were games and visiting among the guests. HAND-PICKED for MURDER

By Robert Martin

THE STORY: Ambrose Lott and Hugo Howell made an error when they went to their rooms. Ambrose went to sleep in Hugo's room and is murdered. Hugo has been an obnoxious guest at the Harbor House and as a result Jim believes the murderer stabbed the wrong man with an ice pick.

Copyright 1937 by Robert Martin

At 1 a. m. I sat drinking black coffee in Chief Campbell's little office. Gus, the young cop, was there and a state trooper named Morris, a technician from the barracks. He said, "Chief, this is your bailiwick, but our facilities are at your disposal."

"Thanks," the chief said. He looked at me and said in a complaining voice, "Just who was this Ambrose Lott? Do we have to make a stink about it?"

I shrugged. "It's murder and you're the law. Lott was a friend of Howell's—used to work for him. That's all I know about it." It wasn't quite all, I thought guiltily. I hadn't forgotten the blow on my head and horrifying dip in the lake, or the sap I'd taken from Lott. But I didn't see any point in complicating things, not at this stage. It was my personal problem.

"The way I see it," the chief said, "we've got to work from Howell's angle. The killer was after Howell but got Lott by mistake. Who would want to kill Howell?" "Maybe me," I said grimly. "He's 100 per cent slob, even if he is a client."

The chief frowned and pulled gently at his thin nose. "I hate to say this," he said, "or even think it, but Wayne Howell must hate his father, especially after that scene in the bar tonight. Howell was pretty rough on him."

The state trooper hunched over the table and said incredulously, "You mean maybe the boy wanted to kill his father? Why—why that's fratricide!"

"Patricide," the chief said. I shook my head. "No. Forget that angle." Then I hesitated, thinking that I'd have to reveal sooner or later what I'd been thinking. I hated it, because I liked Otto, the bartender, but I couldn't forget the cold hate and rage in his eyes at Howell's bullying. And I couldn't forget the ice pick in Otto's hand as he had jabbed viciously at the frozen ice cubes. We hadn't questioned Otto, because he had not been available and presumably was off duty at the time of the killing, which the coroner had set between six and around 7:30 when he'd found Lott. Ambrose Lott had been alive at six o'clock when he and Hugo Howell had staggered up the stairs. My private opinion was that Lott had been killed shortly after six, right after he'd flopped on Howell's bed in a drunken stupor. "Chief," I said, and then stopped.

He looked at me inquiringly. So did Gus and the state trooper. I thought fast, and then said, "I was just going to say that I expect some information on Ambrose Lott, maybe in the morning." I looked at Chief Campbell. "You'll want to notify the next of kin, won't you?"

He regarded me thoughtfully. I wondered uneasily if he suspected that I'd started to confess something and had changed my mind. If so, he was correct. But I'd suddenly decided that I wanted to talk to Otto first. In the meantime I'd give him the benefit of the doubt.

Chief Campbell said to me, "You mean you instigated an investigation of Ambrose Lott? Before he was killed?"

"Routine," I said. "Let's face it, Howell is my client, no matter what I think of him personally. Lott was with him constantly here in Lakeport. They seemed to argue a lot, but apparently were friends. Howell, Lott and the Osterman woman seemed to be tied together. They, along with Howell's son, were all here in the vicinity. So I asked our Detroit office to do some checking."

The chief yawned and said, "Well, I guess we can't do anything more until morning. Bennett, keep in touch with me."

"Sure," I stood up. He nodded at the young policeman. "Gus, you go home and get some sleep. I'll hold down the desk until seven. You be back here then." He turned to the trooper. "Thanks for your help. We'll call you if anything develops."

"I'd appreciate that," Morris said. "It's been a pleasure to work with you—and with the famous Mr. Bennett."

I grunted something and moved to the door. There I paused, turned to face the chief, and said, "The person who killed Lott may know by now that he got the wrong man. He might try again. Maybe I'd better stay with Howell tonight."

He smiled faintly. "I've taken care of that. A special deputy is standing guard outside Howell's door."

I grinned at him. "You're way ahead of me, Chief. I'll see you tomorrow."

I returned to the hotel. The lobby was deserted except for the elderly clerk, who sat behind the desk reading a paperback edition of the short stories of Somerset Maugham. He looked up. "Hello, Mr. Bennett."

"Good evening—or rather good morning. Can you tell me where Otto lives?"

He raised gray eyebrows. "Otto?" "The bartender here. I don't know his last name."

"Oh, you mean Otto Hagn. He rooms over on South Main. Just a minute, I'll give you the number." He turned and thumbed a phone book. "Two-fifty-four—Mrs. Harrington. She's a widow and rents rooms to tourists."

BIG BUSINESS
Mark Carr, a Catskills woodsman, is said to be the pioneer in the huge American Christmas tree business. In 1851, he offered two sledloads of firs for sale in New York City. The idea caught on quickly with people who had neither time nor opportunity to cut their own trees.

Here's Helping Hand for Last-Minute Shoppers

At odds-and-ends for a last-minute gift? A special tie press helps a man keep his ties neat. One with two rollers presses ties overnight while the wearer sleeps.

A gay Panda greeting card is a clever remembrance gift to a neighbor. The card actually is reproduced on fine linen so you are mailing a gay handkerchief in its own envelope.

Proud of your golfing friends? Make them even happier with a special golfer's tie. It has a small foulard golf pattern in fairway green, sandtrap beige, divot brown, golf ball white or sky blue.

Hunters, match shooters or hand-loaders can throw away chewed cartridge boxes. Stuff some Amm-O-Safe cartridge boxes of polyethylene plastic in their hunting sox. Bright red case has individual shell compartments, slip-on cover.

Christmas is a good time to say thanks for neighborly gestures. Slip a purse-size cylinder of Escapade spray perfume under a friend's tree.

Twelve-monthly supplements to a Look and Cook book make this Christmas gift a monthly affair. The culinary service developed by Lillian Lanketh-Christensen of New Milford, Conn., dispatches cooking techniques, menus and receipts each month from New Milford.

Inside-the-bag accessories solve many shopping problems. Who would think to look for an inch-square leather case for stamps? Well, they exist. A small leather pillbox is another decorative, but practical, accessory.

Men's toiletries offer the gift giver an opportunity to pay a fragrant compliment, and enjoy the result. A new grooming aid, Mark II, contains after-shower cologne, after-shave lotion and pre-electric shave lotion.

Small fry buried under toys and Christmas sweets still find room for another gift. A washable rug of amusing design offers novelty with a purpose for children. Some feature favorite animals. Some, like friendship or prayer rugs, are thought-provoking.

Grandmother can replenish her herb rack from a private herb garden. Seeds from the most popular herbs such as anise, basil, sage and thyme are extra packages for her to unwrap.

SIGN 'EM UP
Children like to collect autographs. Take an old plate and try this. Have the youngsters friends sign separate strips of paper. Paste strips to plate and coat with shellac. Or they may want to do this with favorite stars' signatures.

In Memoriam
In loving memory of Ormal Ken-1957:

I seem to see in the soft dim light
A face I loved the best.
And think of him when the sun's last ray
Goes down in the far-off west.
I miss you no less as the time passes on Than I did on the day of your going.
For absence can never close the door of my heart
And the lamp of my love is still glowing.
Your heart was the truest in all the wide world.
Your love the best to recall;
For no one on earth can take your

You are still the dearest of all.

Keenan Found Guilty, Says He Will Not Resign

CHICAGO (UP)—Cook County Assessor Frank Keenan, blaming politics for his conviction on income tax evasion charges, has announced he will not resign and will resist attempts to force him from office.

The long time Chicago political power who bolted the Democratic party early this year and won reelection as a Republican made his statement Sunday at a news conference.

Earlier, State's Atty. Benjamin S. Adamowski, who preceded Keenan in the Democrat to Republican switch, said he was considering the possibility of filing legal action to oust the assessor from office.

Keenan's statement bristled with anger against his former close political associate. He said he bitterly resented Adamowski's statement "on the eve of my trial" when the state's attorney and Gov. Stratton announced Oct. 29 that Keenan would not be related for office.

Keenan was convicted Saturday by a Federal Court jury in Danville on five counts of income tax evasion. The jury also found his brothers, Mark and James, and Keenan's Champlin-Shealy Printing Co. guilty of evading about $200,000 in taxes during 1950-1952.

Keenan, who is free on $10,000 bond, said his attorneys would file motion for a new trial, and if that is denied will appeal the conviction to the United States Court of Appeals.

Junior Woman's Club Entertains Children's Home

The Eldorado Junior Women's club of which Mrs. Delmar Phelps is president, visited the Baptist Children's home at Carmi Friday, Dec. 20, with the annual Christmas party for the children.

Each year for seven years Mrs. Phelps has been chairman of a committee by which the party is planned. This year lovely gifts for each of the 48 children were provided by the club, members of which also prepared a "sack treat" and homemade cookies and ice cream for the boys and girls. Mrs. Eugene Camp was co-chairman.

In addition they employed C. C. Porter, Harrisburg, to do some magic and about 40 minutes of entertainment by him also included some special treats for the children.

Rev. Wade East, superintendent of the children's home, informed the 20 men and women present from Eldorado that their party is the big event of the year for the children, and that theirs is the only organization that has over a period of years consistently remembered the children with gifts and a party.

Full-grown, the largest sequoia trees probably weigh 2,000 tons.

Chances Fade for Nationwide All-White Christmas

By United Press
Chances for a white Christmas all but faded across the eastern half of the nation today with the advent of a southerly air flow that brought spring-like readings throughout the region.

Only the far West experienced seasonal weather with cold air and snow overspreading much of the central and northern Rockies and the Great Basin area Sunday and today.

The colder air was borne on gusty winds Sunday that reached up to 58 miles an hour at Tatoosh Island off Washington, and hit 45 m.p.h. across Montana into Idaho. Rain or snow accompanied the high winds from northeast Nevada into Utah.

Temperatures tumbled into the 20s in some sections of southern California and dropped to a low of 3 early today at Evanston, Wyo.

In the Midwest and East, residents doffed their topcoats as the mercury jumped to a record-matching high of 57 in Chicago Sunday. The record for the date was set in 1875.

'Poorly Dressed' Bank Robber Flees With $2,000

GRIGGSVILLE, Ill. (UP)—A "poorly dressed" bank robber today took an estimated $2,000 from the Farmers National Bank here, and fled with a bank official chasing him to nearby Pittsfield.

Fred Smith, cashier of the bank, said the robbery occurred about 10:30 a. m., when the shabbily dressed man walked up to a bank teller and gave her a note demanding the money.

Smith said the robbery was unnoted until the bandit fled, and the teller, Mrs. Grace Portzline, 56, sounded the alarm. The cashier said he jumped into his car and gave chase, but lost the robber in Pittsfield.

State police sounded a general alarm for the robber. The automobile which the robber had used to escape was found abandoned shortly afterward at Pittsfield, Smith said.

State Police to Crack Down on Traffic Violators
SPRINGFIELD (UP)—All out efforts will be made during the Christmas period to crackdown on traffic violations and attempt to keep the death toll down, state officials warned today.

The state police force, now including nearly 1,000 men, was placed on an emergency basis with all leaves and days off cancelled for the Christmas traffic rush, 6 p. m. Tuesday to midnight Christmas Day.

Gov. Stratton said every available police patrol car and three airplanes from the Aeronautics Department, the largest force of state police ever amassed for holiday accident prevention activities, would be on duty.

"We have no desire to lessen the honest enthusiasm of citizens observing the year's most cherished holiday, but we cannot extend good will to any driver who willfully disregards his behind-the-wheel responsibilities," Stratton said.

Eisenhower to Light Giant Christmas Tree

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Eisenhower planned to take time off from official duties Monday to light a giant Christmas tree symbolic of the nation's hope for peace.

The President was scheduled to throw a switch at 4 p. m. c.s.t. illuminating the huge "national Christmas tree" set up in a park behind the White House as part of the capital's annual "Pageant of Peace."

The Chief Executive was also scheduled to deliver a brief Christmas message to the nation and the world.

The President's plans for touching off the capital's traditional yuletide observance were fitted into a day of urgent appointments.

His schedule will be climaxed Monday night at 7:30 p. m. c.s.t. when he and Secretary of State John Foster Dulles report to the American people over nationwide radio and television on results of the recent Paris meeting of allied chiefs of state.

The President and Mrs. Eisenhower opened Christmas week Sunday by attending church services and praying for peace.

He heard his pastor, the Rev. Edward L. R. Elson of National Presbyterian Church, ask that "God sustain and guide the President of the United States in all his endeavors."

Seek Identity Of 2-Day-Old Baby
OLATHE, Kan. (UP)—Joseph X, named by nurses in honor of the season of his birth, lies in a crib at Community Hospital today while officers sought to determine the identity of the 2-day-old baby.

Newspaper and radio appeals to the mother of the founding to make herself known went unanswered. Police had few clues: A diaper, an undershirt, and a tiny blue blanket. All evidently were new when the newborn baby was tucked into them, possibly by his mother, possibly by someone who acted for her in depositing him on the doorstep of a 66-year-old mail carrier and his wife.

The mail carrier, Stein H. Beck, and his wife, Pearl, 56, turned the baby over to sheriff's officers with evident reluctance. "You're taking our Christmas present," said Beck, who is childless. Mrs. Beck is the mother of three children by previous marriage.

Thinking It Over

By Robert L. Diefenbacher, D. D. (Written for NEA Service)
As we reread Dickens' Christmas Carol and the scores of other stories of Christmas, we find little of hilarity in the literature. These products of man's mind have all grown out of the story of love and humility and sacrifice found in the Bible. Practically all of the theme of Christmas is found in the joy of peace, hope, love and salvation from sin.

It seems rather ludicrous and completely sacrilegious to include "high times" in the Christmas season's activities. Christmas is a happy season because there is a better way of life ahead. Christ came to lift men above their waywardness, not to encourage revelry and worldly hilarity.

We ought to plan our festivities with the hope of better living rather than on a basis of spiritual standards.

Arrested
Lowry Curtis of Crown Point, Ind., was arrested at 5:45 a. m. today at Routes 13-45 by City Policeman Floyd Kimbro, who said he would be charged with driving while under the influence of liquor.

Six Illinois Highway Deaths

By United Press
Illinois motorists apparently practiced careful driving during the pre-Christmas holiday weekend as the state posted a relatively low fatality count.

A United Press survey showed at least six persons were killed in weekend traffic accidents, three of them from Chicago and two from Indiana.

Presbyterian Church To Hold Candlelight Communion Service

The Christmas Eve Candlelight Communion service—a custom of many years at the First Presbyterian church of Harrisburg—will be held again this Christmas season, starting at 11 p. m. Tuesday.

There will be special music by the choir and following the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper the Service of Lights will be observed.

Rev. William Burroughs, church pastor, invites everyone to join with the Presbyterian congregation in this Christmas service and especially invites college students home for Christmas and all other young people.

Cardinal Spellman Arrives in Tokyo in Crippled Airliner

TOKYO (UP)—A crippled Northwest airliner brought Francis Cardinal Spellman of New York into Tokyo 45 minutes late Sunday on the beginning of his annual Christmas tour of American troops in the Far East.

The cardinal didn't even notice when the giant DC7 flying in from Shemya was forced to feather its No. 4 engine three hours out of Tokyo because of a malfunctioning propeller governor, an airline spokesman said.

Let Contract For Super Plane

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Air Force today awarded a contract for development of a "chemical bomber" capable of flying three times the speed of sound.

The contract went to North American Aviation Inc. The amount of money involved was not disclosed.

The plane, called the WS110A, will use so-called "exotic" chemical fuels. It will be designed to reach speeds of 2,200 miles per hour and to climb to altitudes approaching 100,000 feet.

It will be able to make transcontinental bomber runs and return without refueling.

The WS110A is planned as a successor to the H-bomb carrying B52, a subsonic aircraft with a 6,000-mile range which is now the mainstay of the Strategic Air Command, the nation's main retaliatory force in the event of war until ballistic missiles are perfected.

Popular, easy-to-grow flowers are good stocking stuffers. These include bachelor buttons, petunias, annual larkspur, annual pinks, cosmos, moss roses, alyssum, zinnias and marigolds. An ardent gardener will appreciate starts of rare plants or bulb gifts for early spring transplanting.

And don't forget the woman golfer. A par-pak that attaches easily to golf caddy cart has space for score card, pencil, tees and cigarettes.

Centralia Wins, 85-83, With Two Free Throws In Final Seconds of Play

The Harrisburg Bull Dogs, losers at Centralia Saturday night in a heartbreaking contest as could beset a basketball team, this week turn to the Egyptian Holiday tournament which starts Thursday afternoon at Davenport gym.

The Bull Dogs will play Du Quoin at 3:15 p. m. following the opening tilt of the meet at 1:30 p. m. between West Frankfort and Murphysboro. Thursday night tilts will find McLeansboro pitted against Mt. Vernon at 7 p. m. and Eldorado facing Carbondale at 8:45 p. m.

By the tick of a clock the Bull Dogs lost the South Seven contest at Centralia, 85 to 83, defeat coming in the second overtime period. Return From Dressing Room

With the score tied 83 to 83 in the first overtime Ray Hassett uncorked a shot that swished through the basket and joyous Bull Dogs ran to the dressing room believing they had won 85-83.

However, the official timer said that the basket did not count, that the shot had been made after time was out, and the Bull Dogs were brought out onto the floor for another overtime—a "sudden death" affair in which the first team to make two points was the winner.

In this last period Sheriger, Orphan guard, made two free throws and Centralia had the ball game.

The Bull Dogs were magnificent in defeat, only magnificence does not show up in the standings. But they were a team the locals were proud of.

Score 42-37 at Half

The game was close the first quarter, which ended with Centralia ahead 16-14, but in the second period the Orphans pulled away to an 11-point lead at 40-29 with only two and a half minutes left in the half. But in those closing minutes Harrisburg put eight points through the net while holding Centralia to

Two Teams Have Dominated Egyptian Holiday Tourney Play

Annual Event Will Begin Dec. 26 At Davenport Gym

The annual Egyptian Holiday basketball tournament will be entering its eighth year when play starts in Davenport gym the afternoon of Dec. 26 and a lookback shows past meets have been dominated by two schools with a third copping the championship once.

The Mt. Vernon Rams, who held the Mt. Vernon holiday invitational meet for years before it was changed to the Egyptian meet with the site alternating among Mt. Vernon, West Frankfort and Harrisburg, copped the tourney in 1950, its first year, repeated in 1951, and won again in 1955.

Coach Joe Lucero's Edwardsville Tigers, who brought such famed players as Don Ohl, Governor Vaughn and Mannie Jackson to the tourney had a run on championships during 1952, 1953 and 1954, bowing out of the meet after losing in the finals at West Frankfort last year.

The 1950 title game saw Mt. Vernon beat West Frankfort, 48 to 38, at West Frankfort. In 1951 the Rams took the final game from Sparta, 67 to 53, in Davenport gym.

Edwardsville beat Mt. Vernon, 65 to 56, for the 1952 championship at Mt. Vernon, defeated Mt. Vernon again for the title, 52 to 49, at West Frankfort in 1953, and drubbed West Frankfort, 71 to 51, in 1954 at Harrisburg.

Mt. Vernon won the title again in 1955 in probably the most thrilling game of the tournament's history, downing Edwardsville, 80 to 79, in a game that was hot right down to the wire. The Rams won despite the fact that Mannie Jackson made 32 points and Vaughn 25 for the Tigers.

Last year, West Frankfort won the title, winning easily from Edwardsville, 62 to 43, and looms as a top team this year along with Mt. Vernon.

First round pairings this year are:

Thursday at 1:30 p. m.: West Frankfort vs. Murphysboro; Harrisburg vs. Du Quoin.

Thursday at 7 p. m.: Mt. Vernon vs. McLeansboro; Eldorado vs. Carbondale.

Tournament officials will be Jim McCoskey of Murphysboro, Ted Tilden of Kirkwood, Mo., Joe Spagnoli of Hurst and Bill Knight of Paducah, Ky.

Eldorado Loses 7th Game as Anna Wins, 88-63

Eldorado continued to have trouble on the basketball court and Saturday night dropped its seventh decision in eight starts this season.

Anna, paced by the hot shooting of Lewis and Jenkins with 22 and 21 points respectively, rolled over Eldorado 88-63. The game was played at Eldorado.

The Eagles jumped off to a quick 5-0 lead, Anna then tied the score at 5-5 and went ahead midway in the period and was never headed.

Willis had 15 and Fowler 13 to lead Eldorado's scoring.

The preliminary game was won by Eldorado 73-60.

Eldorado participates in the Egyptian Holiday tourney, which will be staged in Harrisburg's Davenport gym Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

Bob Zuppke, Former U.I. Coaching Genius, Dies After Long Illness

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (UP) — The body of Bob Zuppke lay in state today near the University of Illinois where the beloved little coaching genius once gave the nation "razzle-dazzle" football and the legendary Red Grange.

Robert C. Zuppke, as he was formally named but seldom called, succumbed early Sunday at the age of 78 to a long battle against cancer along with complications of high blood pressure and a heart ailment.

Funeral services will be held in the First Presbyterian Church Tuesday at 12 noon e.s.t., with the Rev. Malcolm Nygren officiating.

sure and a "heart condition," which complicated the issue, Christie said. Zuppke underwent surgery for the cancer condition in 1950 and in 1955 suffered a stroke, Dr. Christie said.

Although he appeared in good health shortly after the stroke, Zuppke began failing again this year and was hospitalized Dec. 7.

Afterward the body will be cremated, in accordance with Zuppke's wishes.

Meantime the body of the witty little Dutchman who brought seven Big Ten championships and four national crowns to Illinois, will lay in state at the Mittendorf Funeral Chapel in Champaign.

Intimate friends of the late coach will act as honorary pallbearers. They include all living former Illini football captains, along with Ray C. Eliot, the assistant who succeeded Zuppke as head coach and Big Ten Commissioner Kenneth L. Wilson.

Three of Zuppke's former stars—Mel C. Brewer, R. M. Clark and Burt Ingwersen, along with intimate friends James L. Capel, Burton C. Hurd and D. S. Noel will serve as active pallbearers.

Zupp's death brought messages of condolences from across the nation.

Red Grange, now a resident of Miami, Fla., called it a "great personal loss."

"Outside of my father, Zuppke did more for me than anybody else. He was like a part of my family and I was much closer to him after my playing days. Zup used today's stuff back in 1912 and 1913," said Grange who is a Chicago sports announcer during the football season.

Expressions of sorrow also came from former Minnesota Coach Bernie Bierman, Lou Little, formerly of Columbia, Coach Eddie Anderson of Dartmouth and George Halas, owner of the professional Chicago Bears.

Leona Zuppke, the longtime housekeeper who married the little coach in 1956 after his first wife died, asked that in accordance with her late husband's wishes, floral tributes be omitted with contributions made to charity instead. The Zuppkes had no children.

Dr. John B. Christie, Champaign neurologist who treated Zuppke since he fell ill seven years ago, said cancer of the prostate, first noted in 1950, was only a contributing cause of death. His patient also suffered from high blood pressure.

West Frankfort Defeats Mount Vernon, 60 to 56; Herrin Stops Benton, 76-71

By-United Press

West Frankfort subdued previously undefeated Mount Vernon, 60-56, in one of the top battles in Illinois prep basketball over the weekend.

The undefeated Redbirds, ranked second in the state, humbled the fifth rated Rams at West Frankfort Saturday night. West Frankfort had demonstrated its strength Friday with a 60-50 defeat of Harrisburg.

Harrisburg Saturday tried desperately to bound back from its West Frankfort fall, but lost a heartbreaker to Centralia, 85-83, in a double overtime.

Meanwhile Herrin's top-ranked Tigers staid on top of the undefeated heap with a 76-77 wallop of Benton. Further north Galesburg, which came back from a pair of losses to defeat Monmouth Friday, traveled to Decatur for a wallop at the hands of Decatur Eisenhower, 76-63.

In northern Illinois, Rockford East overwhelmed Sterling, 63-34, to make a perfect seven-game record. No. 6 was against Aurora East Friday night. At Peoria, Manual edged Limestone, 48-46.

Another southern Illinois highlight was Wood River's 63-57 victory over Edwardsville. Edwardsville had moved into the top 15 rated teams last week on the strength of five straight wins, and had made it six Friday by squeezing by Alton, 69-68.

Fourth ranked Quincy Notre Dame smothered Dallas City, 80-36, and the Pekin Chinks, only a notch below Notre Dame in the ratings, drubbed Washington, 69-57. But Pekin had tripped over Danville Friday with a 45-41 loss.

In other games Springfield Cathedral beat Decatur Lakeview, 49-47, Springfield Lanphier overturned Lincoln, 72-52, and Litchfield snapped Shelbyville's undefeated record, 63-57.
